Dear Handhavingwonen

My name is [redacted], I am the owner of the apartment located in [redacted] Amsterdam, my tenant [redacted] rented out my apartment for airbnb and was caught by you last August. She told me that you gave her a huge fine, which she considered as crazy and unreasonable. She wrote you two e-mails just after you send her the fine to appeal but until now she doesn't get any response.
Now she forwarded your email to me and she told me that she would never go back to NL and it's not her business anymore, you can go to incasso her in [redacted] if you can. So I am a little bit worried about this case, how are you going to deal with this? Do you probably need my help and if you will let me take the responsibility.

kind regards
