Dear Mr [redacted]

With this email, I Mr [redacted] clarify that since the visit on the 3rd of November 2018 I have rectified all issues that was apparently not in line with the B&B rules and regulations of Amsterdam.

During this visit , both rooms were indeed occupied .
One room with a couple, Mr [redacted] from [redacted] and the other room with another couple Mr [redacted] also from [redacted].
The main reason why that took place was because we had a double booking which very rarely happens .
When I have a double booking I either cancel that particular booking in which case, I incur a fine from booking.com or simply accept it.
I acknowledged that accepting this double booking was wrong, as witnessed by the 2 controllers/checkers (Mvr[redacted] and Mvr[redacted]).

After the said visit on the 3rd of November 2018, My room is being used by me and only me.
For your information I have always lived in[redacted] and no where else.

In regards to the legality of my B&B, I do have a written permission (clearly states in my huurcontract) from the owner of the building.
I am also a registered business with KvK Amsterdam : Kvk nummer[redacted], registered since April 1st 2015.

With all the above explanation and rectification made, I sincerely hope that I have done what is required of me. I have erred your good office and I am very sorry for that. Please be assured that it will never happen again as I will be following all B&B rules and regulations of Amsterdam , ALWAYS.

I would also like to extend my invitation to pay me a visit for een gezellige coffee time. This will be a great chance to see my house as it normally is and of course I can answer any questions that you may still have.

I hope to see you soon.

Thank you and Kind Regards ,
