Dear [redacted]
Thank you for your letters; i received most of them already from other people. As I have informed them, it is clear for everybody that quite some sexworkers are very unhappy with The Board and have given them a vote of non confidence. The mayor and financial stakeholders know this too. For now i will need to wait and see what is the outcome of the very serious talks with the board.

I do hope you are doing well, all things considering?

Met vriendelijke groet, [redacted]

Dear [redacted],

I hope this message finds you well, especially in these strange times.

[redacted] suggested that I reach out to you about what has been going on at My Red Light because I usually rent from this office. I have attached all of the letters us renters have sent to the supervisory board as well as to the stakeholders. I also attached a personal letter I sent to the stakeholders because I did not want the supervisory board to misuse my words. This is signed as [redacted]. Some of the other letters I signed with a different name.

I want to make it clear, on behalf of the renters, that we all do not trust the current board ([redacted]) and supervisory board ([redacted]). We also do not feel safe with them. We have said this explicitly in person to both [redacted]. While only some sex workers attended the meeting with them, it is not that only a few of us renters are unhappy. It is really the vast majority, if not all of us are unhappy and want every single board and supervisory board member to step down. We have made this clear through the attached letters since January and nothing was ever done with our concerns or frustrations.

If you would like any clarification regarding these letters or anything else with My Red Light, please feel free to reach out to me. My personal number is 06[redacted]. Thanks and have a good day.

Best,
